DISCUSSION: The Director, California Service Center (the director), denied the nonimmigrant visa petition, and the matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be sustained.

The petitioner is a citizen of the United States who seeks to classify the beneficiary, a native and citizen of the Philippines, as the fiancée of a United States citizen pursuant to § 101(a)(15)(K) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(K).

The director denied the nonimmigrant visa petition finding that the petitioner had failed to submit sufficient evidence of the termination of his prior marriage. On appeal the applicant submits a Judgment of Dissolution of Marriage.

Applicable Law

A "fiancé(e)" is defined at Section 101(a)(15)(K) of the Act as:

subject to subsections (d) and (p) of section 214, an alien who -

(i) is the fiancée or fiancé of a citizen of the United States . . . and who seeks to enter the United States solely to conclude a valid marriage with the petitioner within ninety days after admission[.]

Section 214(d)(1) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1184(d)(1), states in pertinent part that a fiancé(e) petition:

shall be approved only after satisfactory evidence is submitted by the petitioner to establish that the parties have previously met in person within 2 years before the date of filing the petition, have a bona fide intention to marry, and are legally able and actually willing to conclude a valid marriage in the United States within a period of ninety days after the alien's arrival, except that the Secretary of Homeland Security in [her] discretion may waive the requirement that the parties have previously met in person. . . .

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(8)(ii) states that if all required initial evidence is not submitted with the petition or does not demonstrate eligibility, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) may, in its discretion, deny the petition for lack of initial evidence. The specific requirements for filing a Petition for Alien Fiancé(e) (Form I-129F), including a description of the required initial evidence, may be found in the Instructions to the Form I-129F.

Factual and Procedural History

The petitioner filed the fiancé(e) petition with USCIS on April 10, 2014, without sufficient supporting evidence. The applicant had submitted evidence of the termination of his second marriage, but not of his first marriage. For this reason, the director issued a request for additional evidence of the termination of the petitioner's prior marriage. In response the petitioner submitted additional documentary evidence and copies of previously-submitted evidence, but failed to submit a divorce decree or death certificate to establish that his prior marriage was terminated, as specifically requested by the director. The director thus denied the petition finding that the petitioner had failed to submit the required evidence. On appeal, the petitioner submits a copy of a Judgment of Dissolution of Marriage from his first spouse, issued by the Circuit Court of [REDACTED], Illinois and dated [REDACTED]

Analysis

The petitioner has now submitted the required evidence to establish he is legally able to conclude a valid marriage in accordance with section 214(d) of the Act and has demonstrated the eligibility to classify the beneficiary as a fiancé under section 101(a)(15)(K) of the Act.

Conclusion

The appeal will be sustained for the above stated reasons. In fiancé(e) visa petition proceedings, it is the petitioner's burden to establish eligibility for the immigration benefit sought. Section 214(d)(1) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1184(d)(1); Matter of Otiende, 26 I&N Dec. 127, 128 (BIA 2013). Here, that burden has been met.

ORDER: The appeal is sustained.
