Robert P. Wiemann, Chief
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the Director, California Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant is stated to be a citizen of El Salvador who is seeking Temporary Protected Status (TPS) under section 244 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1254.

The record reveals that the applicant filed a late initial TPS application on May 4, 2005, under CIS receipt number WAC 05 216 81407. The director denied the application on April 17, 2006, because the applicant failed to establish that she was eligible for late initial registration for TPS.

Section 244(c) of the Act, and the related regulations in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2, provide that an applicant who is a national of a foreign state designated by the Attorney General is eligible for TPS only if such alien establishes that he or she:

- (a) Is a national of a state designated under section 244(b) of the Act;
- (b) Has been continuously physically present in the United States since the effective date of the most recent designation of that foreign state;
- (c) Has continuously resided in the United States since such date as the Attorney General may designate;
- (d) Is admissible as an immigrant except as provided under section 244.3;
- (e) Is not ineligible under 8 C.F.R. § 244.4; and
- (f)
  - (1) Registers for Temporary Protected Status during the initial registration period announced by public notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, or
  - (2) During any subsequent extension of such designation if at the time of the initial registration period:
    - (i) The applicant is a nonimmigrant or has been granted voluntary departure status or any relief from removal;
    - (ii) The applicant has an application for change of status, adjustment of status, asylum, voluntary departure, or any relief from removal which is pending or subject to further review or appeal;
    - (iii) The applicant is a parolee or has a pending request for reparole; or
    - (iv) The applicant is a spouse or child of an alien currently eligible to be a TPS registrant.

- (g) Has filed an application for late registration with the appropriate Service director within a 60-day period immediately following the expiration or termination of conditions described in paragraph (f)(2) of this section.

Persons applying for TPS offered to El Salvadorans must demonstrate continuous residence in the United States since February 13, 2001, and continuous physical presence since March 9, 2001. The initial registration period for Salvadorans was from March 9, 2001, through September 9, 2002. The record reveals that the applicant filed her initial application with Citizenship and Immigration Services (CIS) on May 4, 2005.

To qualify for late registration, the applicant must provide evidence that during the initial registration period he or she fell within at least one of the provisions described in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2) above.

The burden of proof is upon the applicant to establish that he or she meets the above requirements. Applicants shall submit all documentation as required in the instructions or requested by CIS. 8 C.F.R. § 244.9(a). The sufficiency of all evidence will be judged according to its relevancy, consistency, credibility, and probative value. To meet his or her burden of proof, the applicant must provide supporting documentary evidence of eligibility apart from his or her own statements. 8 C.F.R. § 244.9(b).

With her TPS application, the applicant submitted:-

- An El Salvador birth certificate with an English translation;
- A reference letter from [REDACTED], stating that the applicant was employed from March 27, 1995 until September 5, 1997;
- A State of North Carolina driver license;
- A Money Gram money transfer receipt, dated February 1, 2000;
- A State of North Carolina birth certificate, and a Certificate of Birth, both dated November 2, 2000;
- A marriage certificate, indicating that the applicant married on March 10, 2001;
- A 2004 W-2 Wage and Tax Statement; and
- A letter from the applicant stating that she did not apply for TPS because she was afraid and she lost her documents because a preparer stole her money and did not submit her TPS application.

On February 6, 2006, the applicant was provided the opportunity to submit evidence establishing her eligibility for TPS, including eligibility for late initial late registration as set forth in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2). In her response to the notice of intent to deny, the applicant submitted photocopies of:-

- Another reference letter from [REDACTED], stating that the applicant was employed from March 27, 1995 until September 5, 1997;
- A letter from a property manager, dated March 13, 2006, stating that the applicant has lived at [REDACTED] Salisbury since July 2005;
- Two receipts issued in March 2006;
- Daily attendance school records for the period August 25, 2005 to June 8, 2006; and
- A State of North Carolina registration card, valid through August 15, 2004.

On appeal, the applicant asserts eligibility for TPS, states that she has been in the United States since 1995, and that she filed her TPS application late because a Notary stole her money and her documents and did not submit her TPS application. With her appeal, in an attempt to establish her continuous residence in the United States and her continuous physical presence, the applicant submits various documents, including a Medicaid identification card, and numerous earnings statements, issued in 1999 through 2002; and some of the same evidence earlier provided.

However, this evidence does not mitigate the applicant's failure to file her Form I-821, Application for Temporary Protected Status, within the initial registration period.

On appeal, the applicant alleges ineffective assistance of her prior representative, whom she claims in effect served as her legal counsel. The applicant alleges that her prior representative failed to submit her TPS application, to her detriment. However, the applicant does not submit any of the required documentation to support an appeal based on ineffective assistance of representative.

Any appeal or motion based upon a claim of ineffective assistance of representative requires: (1) that the claim be supported by an affidavit of the allegedly aggrieved respondent setting forth in detail the agreement that was entered into with the representative with respect to the actions to be taken and what representations counsel did or did not make to the respondent in this regard, (2) that the representative whose integrity or competence is being impugned be informed of the allegations leveled against him and be given an opportunity to respond, and (3) that the appeal or motion reflect whether a complaint has been filed with appropriate disciplinary authorities with respect to any violation of counsel's ethical or legal responsibilities, and if not, why not. Matter of Lozada, 19 I&N Dec. 637 (BIA 1988), aff'd, 857 F.2d 10 (1st Cir. 1988). Furthermore, CIS is not responsible for inaction of the applicant's representative.

The applicant has not submitted any evidence to establish that she has met any of the criteria for late registration described in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2). Consequently, the director's decision to deny the application for temporary protected status will be affirmed.

Beyond the decision of the director, the applicant has not submitted sufficient evidence to establish her nationality and identity. The applicant has furnished a copy of a birth certificate and English translation; however, she has not submitted a national identity document from her country bearing a photograph and or/fingerprint. The birth certificate alone is insufficient to establish the applicant's identity and nationality under the provision of 8 C.F.R. § 244.9(a)(1). Therefore, the application must also be denied for these reasons.

The application will be denied for the above stated reasons, with each considered as an independent and alternative basis for denial. An alien applying for temporary protected status has the burden of proving that he or she meets the requirements enumerated above and is otherwise eligible under the provisions of section 244 of the Act. The applicant has failed to meet this burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
